

JULENE B. SAMUELS, MD, FACS

Aesthetic Plastic Surgeon

Dr. Julene Samuels is a double board-certified surgeon with extensive, specialized training in cosmetic surgery of the face, breast and body. She believes the best results are maintained over time through the use of specific surgical techniques, coupled with additional state-of-the-art nonsurgical or minimally invasive rejuvenative options. For each patient, she outlines a plan that is customized specifically to age-related concerns, lifestyle, budget and recovery needs. "I love making patients happy and treating them over time. The rewards of this continuity of care from patients who place their utmost trust in me is a real pleasure and a labor of love," she says.

She and her staff strive for a five-star patient experience that makes patients feel like friends and family. "Being a surgeon is who I am and being an expert in the art of cosmetic surgery is my passion. It's a privilege to work with my staff and to serve my patients," she says. Dr. Samuels spends a great deal of time doing clinical research for various implant, skin care and device manufacturers and points to the results of this additional work being the increased benefit to her patients. "My clinical trials and conversations with engineers help perfect tomorrow's options and challenge me to think in ways that will dictate optimal treatments," she adds.

She has learned to be comfortable with never quite feeling she has achieved the ideal balance in her life and admits to being a perfectionist who tries to remain humble knowing that there's always opportunity for personal learning. Much of her peace and happiness come through remaining physically active, making special time for her family and relying on stress relievers such as workouts, riding horses, yoga, cycling or watching her daughters compete in their demanding sport of eventing.

6400 Dutchmans Parkway, Louisville
www.awomanstouchmd.com